Lake Geneva Boat Show Right Around the Corner

As the ACBS ramps up for another great Geneva Lakes Boat Show, we'd like to tell you about two modern wooden boats that you won't want to miss. Gage Marine's "Gage-Hacker" and Charles and Diana Colman's "Nenemoosha" will certainly turn heads with their unbelievable craftsmanship and attention to detail. If you haven't already sent in your registration for the show, time is running short. Space is limited. Friday's tour of Black Point Mansion is sure to be a hit, as well as Captain Crooner's nautically entertaining performance Friday night at Gordy's. Pray for good weather Saturday so all attendees can enjoy the ever-popular "starting of the engines" at 4:00, followed by the traditional boat parade around Lake Geneva. For a full breakdown of the weekend's events, see page 5.

Gage-Hacker

-back in production

Gage Marine is once again in the business of selling wooden boats with the introduction of the "Tradition 26", christened and launched July 1, 2007.

The Honduran mahogany cold molded hull is built by Van Dam with a beautiful African mahogany interior. Some of the features include two coolers, one with it's own bilge pump for melted ice water, a motor box which opens up to a sunning platform, dark covering boards, wooden banjo wheel, oiled mahogany lattice floor, swept back wooden windshield framing, and vinyl upholstery feeling as if it were fine suede.

The new 26' Gage-Hacker utilizes the John Hacker Maierform design bottom (see the Classic Boating article page 16 in the May/June 2007 issue) giving it a very good ride in the typical Geneva Lake chop. A small section turned downward at the chine also gives an exceptionally dry ride. The lines are classic, especially the curved plumb transom.

Nenemoosha

Iroquois for "Sweetheart"

Charles and Diana Colman have taken delivery of their new replica of a Ditchburn launch. Built by Peter Breen, the workmanship is breath taking. The 32 foot hull and interior construction is classic Ditchburn.

PRESIDENTS MESSAGE

The summer is in full swing. Hope everyone is enjoying the great summer, family, and all the old wooden boats. I've been out a few times with my son and it's great to be on the water.

The club just had a great show on the Fox River this July. You can read about it and see the pictures in this issue. The show had a great turnout and the club and I thank the Wagner family and the show staff, for a great job. The weather was no too hot, and of course, no rain.

During the morning hours, the club held a board meeting and we had a great turnout of board members. I thank all of you for finding the time to show up and help with the direction and ideas for the club. Again, I reiterate, the club is for all of us, so if anyone has any ideas for workshops or tours, please tell me or any board member. The club is financially sound, members are enjoying the shows, and the Geneva Show committee is busy working towards our fall show at the Abbey.

We are looking into another venue for our fall dinner. I have a few suggestions, but if anyone else has some ideas, please let me know. Enjoy the summer, be safe, and lets all have fun on the water.

Sincerely,
Andy Ievins

Towing Power!

CorrectCraftFan.com 2007 reunion

July 13th – 15th Green Lake, Wisconsin

By Pete Brainard

Being a Correct Craft fan all my boating life, I have gotten involved with a web site that has been built up around Correct Craft enthusiasts. Although Correct Craft started building boats in 1925 most of this group have fiberglass but it is a mix of all years. The first glass boat was the 1961 Ski Nautique that has grown to be the preferred ski and wake board boat today. Most early wood models were considered to be throw-away boats so there aren't many around anymore. Many were burned in the early 60's as the glass boats were becoming popular.

Each year CCfan hosts a mid west and an east coast reunion. By on line talking with this group, I felt that I had gotten to know most but it was time to meet them in person. I signed up and went to the Green Lake reunion, had a great time and meet a new group of boating friends that I have added to my already large list!

Green Lake is the 5th largest body of water and is the deepest in the state of Wisconsin so I was a little apprehensive about boating on it with my little 14' 6" atom. Yes, as luck would have it, on the big day of the parade, the wind was out of the WSW so it was coming across the full width of the lake. It was one of those "white caps on top of the rollers" days! I kept in the middle of the group and as close as possible to the person in front of me. At least this rough water prevented the parade from turning into an all out race to the sand bar for lunch. The turnout was 33 boats (I was the only wood) and 110 people.

Editors Note: Pete is too modest to mention it but his boat won Best of Show at the reunion. Congratulation Pete, great work!

Trust me, It doesn't look rough but it was!!

GENEVA LAKES 2007 SCHEDULE OF EVENTS DESCRIPTION

NEW EVENTS FOR FRIDAY! We'll board the steam-powered Louise (1902), an all-weather historic day launch and arrive at Black Point Mansion for a private tour. Built in 1888 in the Queen Ann style, the museum has 13 bedrooms and features a 4 story crow's nest, which served as an observation tower to the panoramic views of Geneva Lake. This private viewing is available via this launch only. The property is on 6 acres with 600 feet of shoreline, with a fair amount of steep steps up to the Mansion. Meet at the Abbey Launch Ramp for check-in prior to a short walk to the Fontana Pier where we will board the launch. Cash beverages will be available aboard. After the tour the launch will take us to Gage Marine for lunch. Approx 2:15 the launch will return us to the Fontana Pier.

The remainder of the afternoon is open, allowing you for you to launch your boat and see more of the lakeshore, antique in nearby Walworth (10 min drive), or check out the shops of Lk Geneva on the east end of the lake (20 min drive).

The Friday evening Cocktail/ Hors d'oeuvres Reception 6:00. Wisconsin cheeses, wings, meatballs, & calamari will be among the offerings, there will be a cash bar and a special appearance by nautically-themed Capt. Crooner (www.captaincrooner.com)! Our private room at Gordy's Lakeside Restaurant, a short 2 block walk from the Abbey, has a classic nautical theme overlooking Geneva Lake.

Friday launching is available from 7:00-9:00 AM till the Tour, or 2:00-8:00 PM.

Show day packet & launching assignments will be available 7-9:30 Saturday at Abbey's Harbor House near the ramp. Launching is at the same time. Come in and pick-up your dock assignment before driving up to the ramp. A complimentary continental breakfast for boat registrants is available here until 10am.

Seventy+ in-water and many on-land antique, classic and current contemporary wood boats from the early 1900's on up highlight this Show. The public attends free.

The 4pm Boat Parade allows another opportunity to get out onto one of Wisconsin's largest and deepest lakes, enjoying the fall scenery. If taking your boat be sure to attend the Skippers meeting @ 3:30 in the Show Tent.

Saturday's Cocktail Party and Dinner will be held at the Abbey. Bill Gage Jr, from Gage Marine will discuss the history of Gage/Hacker boatbuilding and the reintroduction of the line!

Sunday morning have a leisurely breakfast or go boating, but be sure to attend the Show by 10am. At 1:00 the Awards Ceremony will take place. Also on Sunday there will be hundreds of classic cars on display at the Interlaken Resort nearby.

The Abbey Resort has a limited number of rooms reserved at the Blackhawk Chapter ACBS Show rate. Use PROMO WOOD BOAT SHOW WBS07 when making your reservation by Sept 1 for ACBS rates.

We look forward to having you join us for any of the activities. It's always been a fun weekend that we hope you'll have fond memories of. See you in September!

There is a choice of engines up to 300 HP coupled to a V-drive through a reduction gear. The drive train is smooth and the engine muffled so that conversation in the rear seat is not a strain.

The attitude of the hull accelerating from idle to on-plane was a pleasant surprise. Because of the Hacker design bottom there is almost no rise of the bow in the transition from slow to planing speeds, visibility over the bow is good at all speeds.

Bill Gage Jr will be speaking more about this project at the Saturday night dinner during the Geneva Lake Boat Show.

Rather than a replica of one particular model, the Colemans chose to combine features they liked from several models of the era. Much of the hardware is original Ditchburn, some it reproduction, but all of the hardware, interior, wiring, accessories, quadrant steering and rudder are true to Ditchburn of the era. The wood steering wheel is a restored wheel from the 1920's, and the engine is a restored Chrysler straight 8.

This is truly a magnificent craft, if you want to see what dreams are made of, it will be at the Geneva Lake Boat Show.

“Byrne Pile”

Restoration of a 1953 Resorter

By Matt Byrne

It all began when I was finishing up the restoration of my 1962 19' Century Resorter. I had an issue with the engine that a local mechanic was looking into, and when I went to pick up the boat he asked if I was interested in doing another one. My first reaction was “absolutely not”! I had just finished up an arduous 4 year project and was ready to enjoy using a boat rather than working on one. The mechanic continued on and said that his brother had a Century wooden boat, wasn't sure what model, and he was going to burn the hull in the near future. He went on to say that, if I wanted it, his brother would give it to me for free. This got my attention. “You should at least go look at it” he said. I agreed and the next weekend I went to take a look.

Upon arrival I found a 1953 16' Resorter, stripped of all hardware, upside down on a burn pile with a few bottom board removed. After a little investigation I discovered the following: The guy that owned the boat acquired it as a bonus when purchasing a different boat. The boat had been retrofitted with a V-8 at one time and this was too much power for its modest hull. When the boat began leaking due to the extra power the owner decided to fiberglass the hull. Well, the fiberglass only lasted a season or two and the boat began leaking again. At this point the owner stripped the hull of the fiberglass and removed a couple of bottom planks. He discovered just how poor of shape the boat was in and he threw in the towel. The current owner attempted to sell the boat. It was listed in an old issue of the Thoroughbred (I found the issue - shame on you guys for not buying the boat then!). After failing to sell and getting tired of paying for storage, the owner decided to destroy the hull and sell the hardware. This is where I enter the picture. For $300 I had an old trailer from the guy storing the boat, some hardware and a major project on my hands. After taking inventory I found that I was missing the steering wheel, windshield brackets, rub rail, and an engine. It was time to start searching eBay on a regular basis.

A couple weeks later I went back out to the burn pile, put the boat on a trailer, and the owner of the land agreed to store the boat for me until spring. In the spring of 2002 I brought the boat home and began the work. This boat was in the worst shape possible. It was like a big piece of jello, very loose. After a lot of bracing I flipped it over and began removing the bottom. I was amazed at how many screws, bolts, and frames were broken. And, yes, the keel was broken from the over powering of the V-8. All the broken material made it difficult to even use some pieces at patterns. It's funny, whenever I show someone a project like this they say “how do you know how to do this?”. I say, “It's easy! You just take a piece off, make a new one, and then put it back on”. This is what I did for the next 4 years until the boat was completely reframed and re-planked. The only original wood is the 2 engine stringers and the back seat bottom. Everything else is new wood. Finally, in summer of 2006, I was done with woodworking for the hull and began applying the finish. After hours of sanding, some above normal temps, and many coats of varnish, the hull had a shiny finish by the end of 2006. Since then I've installed chrome hardware, plumbed the gas tank and ran the electrical. My target date to finish was May 19, 2007, for a boat show in Muscatine, Ia. I met that deadline just in the nick of time. The boat hit the water for the first time the day before the show, it made its debut with no issues, and it hasn't seen the water since. We do plan to hit a few boat shows this fall, including the Geneva Lakes Boat Show in September. I decided to name the boat "Byrne Pile", a play on where I found the boat and my last name.

Lessons learned: 1) When picking a restoration project, find a boat that is complete. Missing parts can be hard to find and are usually expensive. 2) A little experience is sometimes a bad thing. This is the second boat I've restored so I figured I knew what I was doing...I may have rushed a few things. This rushing came back to haunt me later. 3) No matter how long you think something will take to do, double it! 4) Try to stay motivated. There was a period in my restoration where I didn't do any work for almost a year. I always find that visiting a boat show or two will help get me ready to tackle the next problem. 4) Have fun. Don't make working of the boat a chore or you will never finish.

Resorter 16

Century Resorter 16 brings you all the luxury features, the finely crafted details of construction and finish, in a slightly shorter overall length, if you prefer a smaller hull. Here is a deluxe runabout which offers you speed and comfort at a moderate cost. The instrument panel is a marvel of compactness and well-balanced beauty of arrangement for your utmost convenience and ease of control. Your Century Resorter can make through the water at speeds which come easily and naturally to this Century Thoroughbred. The graceful design of the hull is expertly engineered to balance all the factors of water resistance, weight and engine power to give you the thrill of speed with maximum safety. Equipment, trim and accessories combine beauty of appearance with durability and practical utility.
